BEING TORN DOWN. Rev. Hugh Treanor About Ready to Lay Out the Grounds for a Ceme-

The old pavilion at Sachem park is being torn down by Albert L. Potter, who has purchased the building indirectly from St. Patrick's parish. The building, now run down and dilapidated, was in its glory a dozen years ago, when Sachem park was exploited as an amusement resort and for several seaamusement resort and for several seasons was run with diminishing success tuntil finally abandoned. A spur track had been run in by the trolley company and the building and the yard was later leased by them as a convenient place for storing material. Several winters ago a big supply of sand was shoveled in on the floor by the trolley road employes and one morning they found most of the sand in the cellar. Over a year ago the Connecticut company moved their stock off of the property. Since then the pavillon has been chiefly a meeting place for the younger element.

Hugh Treanor, rector of St. Patrick's parish, has tentative plans for a cemetery there and men have visited the property to get an idea of the layout. The part which was to be plotted out as a burying ground was the former league baseball grounds, as this is the best location.

Harvesting Ice at Reservoir. Boss Farmer E. William Yerrington of the Ponemah company will start filling the company's ice house at the old reservoir this morning. He had a force of men working Tuesday marking and cutting the ice, which was found to be 14 inches thick. While the reservoir is extremely low, it is expected that a full supply of fine ice can be housed. The last of the ice harvested last year was brought into the company's barn this week.

In Lisbon, Edmund Pgoulx of Taftville and Kramer & Henderson of Greeneville had a busy day Tuesday in harvesting their ice crops.

Foundations for Turbine Finished. The foundations for the new steam turbine which is to generate electricity to run the looms in the Pone mah company's new weave shed, are finished. The turbine has not yet come but it is expected to arrive in a short time. Its size and strength can be judged from the statement that on of the parts will weigh 12 tons.
